

WEBMEDX ANNOUNCES “COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE” PROGRAM

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ATLANTA, March 18, 2008 -- Webmedx, Inc. has announced the release of their Commitment to Excellence Program. Part of the company’s mantra of Remarkable Results this innovative quality program is designed to assist the company in meeting 100% of their clients’ quality expectations. The primary focus of the program is to enhance the knowledge and skill set of the Webmedx work force using relevant, quantifiable measures that guarantee the integrity of the content. The Commitment to Excellence Program is based on the guidelines and standards set forth within the industry and professional associations, including the Association for Healthcare Documentation Integrity (AHDI, formally AAMT), the Medical Transcription Industry Association (MTIA), the American Health Information Management Association (AHIMA), and ASTM International.

The Commitment to Excellence Program focuses on knowledge and skills development of every transcription team member using a refined, one-on-one mentoring process which successfully maintains industry-leading quality standards. The program was officially launched in February this year. “This full-cycle approach to meeting client expectations focuses on the real variables that drive quality clinical documentation from dictation practices all the way through metric-driven feedback to the transcription and medical editing teams,” said Vallie Piloian, CMT, FAAMT, Director, Quality Operations, and Immediate Past President of AHDI. Sean Carroll, Webmedx CEO, says “Quality and accuracy of patient information demands Remarkable Results. Our objective is to lead the industry in this regard.”
